MISSING WOMAN IS FOUND NEAR HOME

RAILROAD MEN SEE MRS. ALBERT BATSCHELET HIDING.

WATCHED FROM TREE-TOP

After hiding for fifty-three hours in weeds and in the tops of trees within a quarter-mile of her home, Mrs. Albert Batschelet was found at 5 o'clock this morning by the searchers who for two days have combed the country about Parnell. She had had no food in that time, but is apparently uninjured.

Worn out by forty hours of almost continuous hunting, in which practically the entire community took part, the members of searching parties stopped their efforts last night. At 3:15 o'clock this morning, the conductor of a Chicago Great Western train saw the wanderer as the train was pulling away from the station. As Ravenwood has no night telegraph operator, it was not until the train reached Conception Junction that he was able to notify the Parnell station agent. The latter then called Eugene Klaas, a near neighbor of the missing woman's parents.

Throws Arms About Father.

Day was breaking as Anthony Echterling, the father, found the fugitive in high weeds near the home. He had searched in the dense growth for some time, often within ten feet of the crouching hider, before field glasses were secured, through which the form of the young mother was seen. When she was discovered, Mrs. Batschelet rose and threw her arms about her father. Returning to the home, she first refused breakfast, but was later induced to eat.

Fear that she was to be taken back to a St. Joseph sanitarium, where she was given treatment after the birth of a child four months ago unbalanced her mind, was the reason for Mrs. Batschelet's wandering, it was learned this morning. She was to have been taken to her home at Clinton last Thursday morning, with a stop for one day in St. Joseph.

Drank Strange Mixture.

At midnight Wednesday night, according to Mrs. Batschelet's own story, she slipped from her bed while her husband was asleep. The doors were locked, but she unfastened a screen and climbed out of the window.

Earlier in the evening she had drunk a mixture of bluing and toothache medicine, which made her violently ill. Whether she had taken the concoction with the intention of committing suicide is not known.

The tracks which led from the Echterling home through an orchard to the river bank were those of Mrs. Batschelet, but she had done nothing more than wade in the water, she said. During all the time that the search for her was in progress, she was hiding near enough to watch their efforts. Part of the time, she said, she was hidden in thick patches of weeds. Yesterday she spent much of the day in the branches of trees along the river bank, watching while men waded up and down the stream dragging for her body with a long rope. Her description of the boat used and the costumes of the men was sufficiently vivid to convince her hearers that she was actually near enough to watch the search.

Search Was Widespread.

The search was made not only in the vicinity of Parnell but by parties starting from Orrsburg, Sheridan and Ravenwood. Every farmer was called on the telephone and asked to search his premises. At 1 o'clock yesterday, four parties were organized at Parnell, scouring the country in all directions. Stores were closed and farmers stopped work to aid the stricken family.

Mr .and Mrs. Batschelet formerly lived at Churdan, Iowa, but their home is now in Clinton, Mo. She will be taken there tomorrow morning. A sister of Mr. Batschelet will accompany them to Clinton and will care for the 4-months-old baby.

HOPKINS PLAYERS IN RETURN MATCH

TENNIS STARS WILL COME HERE NEXT WEEK.

PLAY ON COLLEGE COURTS

Gillam-Bock Singles Match Expected to be Scintillating Affair—New Class Added.

The second series of tennis matches between Maryville and Hopkins will be played off on the college courts the first of next week. There will be five matches. As Maryville won all except one of the matches played at Hopkins three weeks ago the visitors are coming here with an appetite for revenge.

The feature match will be the singles between Forrest Gillam and Thomas (Jigger) Bock. At Hopkins Gillam won two sets out of three, but they were all hotly contested. Fast tennis is sure in this match.

Gillam and the Rev. S. P. Allison will meet Bock and Howard Stewart of Hopkins in the Class A men's doubles. This is also expected to be a fast match. The visitors took one set of the three from the local team in the last meet.

Dr. Jesse Miller, Jr., and Robert C. Rice will compete against Bebout and his partner in the Class B. men's doubles. This is a new match and much interest is expected as these teams have never met before.

In the Class C. students' doubles, Earl Bland and William Mapel will meet Myron Laipple and James Lewis In this match at Hopkins the latter won by closs scores. Bland, however, was handicapped with a "charley horse" and was unable to play his usual fast court game. He is now in fine shape and with his partner has been playing some fast tennis.

Ruth Miller and Ora May Condon will meet Gene Chaney and Cleo Kime in the Class A girls' doubles. At Hopkins the local combination won two straight sets and they are expected to win easily on the home courts.

The players on all of these teams have been practicing a great deal in the past two weeks and have all improved on their playing. From all indications the visitors are in form also and a fast meet is promised.

EXPLAINS GRAIN MARKETING PLAN

P. E. DONNELL GIVES DETAILS OF U. S. GRAIN GROWERS, INC.

ORGANIZERS HERE SOON

Explaining in detail the marketing plans of the United States Grain Growers, Inc., P. E. Donnell told his Courthouse audience yesterday afternoon that organizers would soon visit the county to put the plans into operation.

The U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., he said, was organized as a result of several months careful study by representatives of all important farmers cooperative organizations in the United States which undertook to handle grain. The committee appointed to make this study has been known as the Committee of Seventeen and was called into existence by the American Farm Bureau Federation something over a year ago. Mr. Donnell, whose home is at Waco, was a member of this Committee of Seventeen and is one of the directors of the corporation.

On Friday, June 3, Clifford Thorne of Chicago, counsel for the Executive Committee of the U. S. Grain Growers Inc. filed papers of incorporation in Delaware for the farmers finance corporation with a capital stock of one hundred million dollars. This farmers finance corporation is for the purpose of advancing the work of the U. S. Grain Growers Inc.

Our Enormous Scale.

The average man can hardly conceive of the enormous scale upon which this project has been planned says Mr. Donnell. When it is finally successfully developed it will put the marketing of the surplus grain of all the individual grain growers of the United States under one great national sales agency governed by directors elected by the grain growers themselves.

It contemplates further the evolution of this national sales agency—the U. S. Grain Growers Inc.—into subsidiaries including a warehouse corporation to own or lease terminal and other elevators and the necessary equipment at the various central grain markets in the country; an expert corporation to handle grain for export; a finance corporation, mentioned above, whose principle function will be to accept warehouse receipts,

COUNTY UNIT LAW PETITION IS FILED

DEMANDS VOTE ON MEASURE IN 1922 ELECTIONS.

CONTAINS 85,750 NAMES

Other Petitions Will be Filed Today Asking Referendum on Twelve Other Laws.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 18.—The first of thirteen petitions to invoke the referendum against certain bills passed by the last session of the Missouri legislature was presented at the secretary of state's office late yesterday and accepted. It would hold up operations of the county unit law until the elections of 1922.

Democratic leaders who are sponsoring the referendum campaign said last night that the other petitions would be filed today.

The county unit law would expand rural school facilities.

The referendum petition covering it was presented by Dr. N. R. Holcomb of Independence, Mo. He was accompanied to the secretary of state's office by several other men. The petition contains 85,750 names. It was carried in a suitcase. According to those who brought it, the petition was circulated in thirteen congressional districts. Secretary Becker said he would begin checking the names on the petition next week.

By districts, the number of signatures are as follows:

First, 6,781; Second, 5,304; Third, 7,311; Fourth, 5,634; Fifth, 10,409; Sixth, 5,208; Seventh, 6,511; Eighth, 5,484; Ninth, 5,320; Tenth, 2,085; Thirteenth, 4,573; Fourteenth, 10,185; Fifteenth, 5,640; Sixteenth, 5,280.

About thirty-five thousand names are sufficient to suspend operation of the law pending the referendum.

Referendum campaign leaders last night said their procedure in filing the other petitions called for presentation at the secretary of state's office this morning. Under an opinion rendered by Attorney General Jesse Barrett, it is expected the petitions will be refused by Secretary Becker on the ground that the law carry a "public peace, health and safety clause." Campaign leaders say they then will appear before the supreme court and ask a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary to accept them.

SAYS HOUSE FAVORS DIRT ROAD SYSTEM

TAX REDUCTION IS URGED

Several Proposed Measures Call for Lower State Levy and a Cut in Income Tax Rate.

"Action of some kind will be taken by the Legislature at its special session toward providing a measure for spending the sixty million dollars for good roads," said Representative Jesse Miller, who returned home this morning from Jefferson City for a week-end visit.

Dr. Miller said the general sentiment in the house was for distribution of the road money among the counties of the state on some equitable basis, either population, assessment, area or number of automobiles, and to be used for grading and putting in culverts on dirt roads. The sentiment in the senate he reported to be rather in favor of hard surface roads.

Many of the leaders are predicting the special session will last between four and five weeks.

Fifteen road bills have already been introduced in the house but only two of them are back from the printer. Some of the bills did not relate to the bond issue, one being for special road districts and one for electing road overseers.

Dr. Miller also reported there was some division of sentiment in regard to whether the money should be spent on the post roads or the inter-county seats highways in each county.

Several tax reduction measures have been presented in the senate, Dr. Miller reported. One was for a reduction in the state tax levy from 14.6 cents to 8 cents. Others were for reductions in the state income tax from 1½ per cent to 1 per cent and one for even a lower figure than 1 per cent.

Dr. Miller will return to Jefferson City Monday afternoon.

Next Week At the Movies

AT THE ELECTRIC.

Monday and Tuesday will be double feature days. Mary Miles Minter will appear in "All Souls' Eve" and Buster Keaton in a comedy entitled, "Neighbors." In the first picture Miss Minter takes the role of Nora O'Hallahan, a beloved Irish girl with the original setting in Ireland. The scenes are later shifted to America and the plot takes the little Irish girl through a series of themost unusual and eventful happenings. The comedy has been desferibed as Buster Keaton's latest and best gigglelogue of free and easy joy among the friendly enemies. Keaton's private life was brought in the limelight recently by his unexpected marriage to Natalie Talmadge, the young sister of Constance and Norma Talmadge.

The coming of Metro's all-star production of "Clothes" on Wednesday and Thursday next marks the arrival of another big Broadway stage success on the screen. "Clothes," the drama with which Avery Hopwood and Channing Pollock started their successful careers as dramatists in 1906 at the same time laid the foundation for the starring career of Grace George.

It tells the story of feminine vanity, extravagance and capriciousness, leading on to disaster in a cynical set in New York society. The heroine, Olivia Sherwood, is an orphan, whose supposedly wealthy father has left her nothing but an income of $2,000 a year—hardly enough for pin money in the circle in which she revolves.

Olivia, however, continues to live as gaily and recklessly as if she were still wealthy. Money comes to her easily through Arnold West, a lawyer, who deceives her into believing that the money is hers.

When she is heavily in debt he tells her she is a pauper dependent upon him for charity. She has to marry him, he insists, because he has 'bought' her.

The story deals with the adventures of a little working girl who is lifted from the scullery of a great New York hotel to a life of luxury in a wonderful Long Island country place, by a gang of crooks who have learned, from a pawn-shop keeper, that the girl owns a rare old silver goblet which bears the crest of a distinguished family of Irish nobility.

The girl doesn't know much about her ancestry, but her mother had told her that goblet was a family heirloom; the crooks pretend to represent this family and for a time the girl is very happy with her supposed grandfatner. Then the real grandfather appears, claims not only the cup but the girl, and the fake jewel scheme of the crooks, to which the girl was to be an unconscious assistant, is foiled.

On Saturday Gladys Walton plays the feature role in "All Dolled Up." It shows Miss Walton as a little shop girl with a dream that some day a fairy prince would come into her life to take her from the round of drugery that fate exacts from her for a scant living.

In the course of her work behind the counter she meets Eva Bundy," a spinster with millions, who is buying a trousseau for her impending marriage to Rodolpho, a singer.

To escape from a floor walker, Maggie one night steps into an automobile driven by Miss Bundy's chauffeur. She thinks that he is a rich young man and naturally is quite glad that it happened to be he who saved her in her distressing predicament. Through a well-conceived series of episodes he takes her to a road house where Rodolpho is trying to lure Miss Bundy, intending to compromise her and blackmail her out of her millions. The plan goes wrong, however, and Rodolpho is exposed, while Jimmy, the chauffeur, and Maggie are started on their way to happiness with the financial backing of the spinster.

At The Empire.

On Monday and Tuesday nights, Charles Ray will be seen in another of his typical rural stories, "An Old Fashioned Boy." Not much advance information is available on this picture, but the fact that it is a Charles Ray picture, is sufficient guarantee that it is a good picture. On Monday night there will also be the Literary Digest and Ford Education Reel and Tuesday night a Sunshine comedy.

On Wednesday and Thursday nights Constance Talmadge will be featured in, "Good References." Constance plays the role of Mary Wayne, until recently the daughter and secretary of an industrious novelist, but one whose books never sold, finds herself in the shabbiest kind of a boarding house with five dollars between her and the cruel cold world.

Mary tries to stall the landlady on the board-bill, but a little cooker on which she had been doing some forbidden cooking, and which had been thrust under the bed at the approach of the enemy, sets fire to the counterpane, making it doubly incumbent on the old lady to give Mary the air and call the fire engines.

In answer to an ad placed by THE BRAIN WORKERS" employment agency, Mary applies for a position, but being without references the agency refuses to even consider her.

As Mary is leaving the office, she meets Neil Norcross, who has just obtained a position, but celebrates her good fortune by becoming very ill. There is nothing for Mary to do but swap personalties and take the position, which is in the home of Miss Caroline Marshall, an old maid, and a religious enthusiast.

Bill, her nephew, has just returned from college, bringing with him an old pal, Pete, whom he smuggles into the house as his valet. Pete makes a very good valet, until Mary arrives at the mansion. To get even with his "master" for placing him in such a lowly position with such glorious prospects in sight, Pete suggests to Bill's aunt that she introduce Bill to society, via the religious route, and hold a big reception for the Bishop.

Bill displays no enthusiasm for this plan, and leaves the house for the evening, announcing that he is going to a very exclusive affair. Bill has his own conception of society. The affair is exclusive until the police arrive, making it necessary for Mary to come to court and bail out Bill and his prize fighter friend, "Kid Whaley."

But having the goods on him, Mary makes Bill attend a very swell affair given by his aunt, but Bill scandalizes his aunt's social position by bringing scrappy Kid Whaley to the dinner. A series of amusing incidents follows which make a fitting ending for this most interesting picture.

Ethel Clayton plays a sort of feminine Jekyll and Hyde in her latest Paramount photoplay, "Sins of Rosanne," which will be presented Friday. The picture is a mystery-romance, with the bulk of the action laid in South Africa, and was adapted from Cynthia Stockley's popular novel.

The heroine is an English girl who was mothered for two years by a Malay woman and was imbued by her with a passionate desire for bright stones and the strange power to cause injury to those whom she might hate. When she sees jewels, she comes under the influence of her craving and will not stop at anything, even theft, to obtain them. When the lure is taken away, she becomes again a gentle, lovely personality. A beautiful romance develops, according to the story, and destroys the spell.

An excellent cast supports the pretty star in "Sins of Rosanne." Jack Holt is the leading man, and Fred Malatesta and Clarence Geldart are also in the the screen by Mary H. O'Connor and company. The story was adapted for was directed by Tom Forman. It is a Paramount picture.

Will Mountjoy of Graham was in town today.

Roland Curnutt went to St. Joseph today on business.

NEWS FROM OVER THE COUNTY

Elmo Register.

The present indications are for a short potato crop here. There seems to be plenty of potatoes in the hill, but the recent dry weather has retarded their growth, and the crop of marketable potatoes will be small. It is not believed that plenty of rain from this date would help much.

The Elmo B. B. team will play a return game with Skidmore next Sunday, at Skidmore, and a game the following Sunday with Westboro. It is probable that they will go to Yorktown for a game July 4th, as Yorktown expects to Celebrate.

Roy M. Ecker and Edna M. James were married Wednesday evening June 15, 1921, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. James, by Rev. C. F. Jenkins, pastor M. E. Church.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ecker, the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. James, and both parties are well known here.

Mr. Shonsey, our local agent, kindly sends the following report of shipments from Elmo for the year 1920.

Car load shipments 16 cars cattle, 62 cars hogs, 25 cars wheat, 19 cars corn, 1 car Alfalfa, 5 cars Hay, 4 cars Junk, total 132. Less than Carload shipments 75 cattle, 175 hogs, 50 calves, 7,100 lbs. poultry, 1960 cases eggs 1,775 lbs. hides and pelts, 167 lbs. dressed meat, 317 lbs. Tallow, 350 lbs. Apples.

Barnard Bulletin.

The Bristle Ridge community southeast of Guilford is to celebrate the Fourth of July, if the present plans go through. Hugh Whiteford and Henderson Miller of that neighborhood were in Barnard Wednesday afternoon making arrangements concerning the Barnard Booster Band for the day. The celebration is to be held in the Whiteford grove and is being sponsored by the Farm Clubs of the neighborhood. Seven or eight Farm Clubs are going together for the celebration and are getting Wm. Hirth of Columbia, Mo., publisher of the Missouri Farmer and leader of the Farm Club movement as the principal speaker.

Last Thursday morning Hugh Fraizer, who lives west of Barnard, had his leg amputated just below the knee. He has been suffering for some time with an affliction of the foot and gangrene was setting in. The operation was performed in the Maryville hospital. He is getting along nicely at this time.

Grant Township Board met in Barnard Wednesday afternoon to look after the business of the township. Only routine business was done and labor bills paid. The Board sold the County warrant which they held in the amount of some $3,000.00 at a discount and are grading roads in both ends of the township. Fay Campbell and Chas O'Howell are running the small tractor and grader in the south part of the township and W. F. Conlin and Walter Coulter are running the outfit in the north end. Some good work that will be of benefit because of its being done early in the year, is being accomplished by these outfits.

The five room dwelling on the D. R. Eversole farm southeast of Barnard burned Monday about noon. The fire caught from a defective flue and within a very short time the entire roof was aflame. Neighbors rushed to the assistance of the firefighters but could do nothing to save the house. Practically all the furniture and household goods were saved. Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Mounts lived in the house.

W. F. Conlin, Grant Township Trustee, was hurt a week ago Tuesday by the big tractor which is owned by the township. He was trying to crank the machine when it started to coast down hill. The crank caught his leg and twisted it pretty severely Aside from a sore limb which caused him to limp pretty badly, no further injuries were received. The accident happened in the north end of the township where the workmen have graded some fifteen miles of road.

The new residence of W. J. Campbell has been completed. The coat of stucco has been applied and we now have the first house of its kind in our town. The appearance of the house is very pleasing and it is probable that the use of stucco will become more common in Barnard as a result.

We understand that Ralph Pope, living ten miles northwest of Barnard has an up to date garage which was given a coat of stucco this week.

The Hopkins Journal.

Through the agency of Cecil Appleton, a deal was closed last week whereby Frank O. Litsch, owner of the Royal theatre, bought and at once took charge of the Denton grocery store and meat market on Third street.

The last car of oil reached here Saturday and on Monday, the job of oiling the streets was finished. Besides the business streets and the main street leading south out of Hopkins, the streets west of the depot to the Wm. Jeffers corner were oiled. Also the street just east of the depot and the street in front of the ice plant were vaccinated as well as the streets running south from the Porter corner to the Sayler residence, south of the Baptist church. Of course the oil was again applied to Science Hill leading to the school house. It is an inexpensive way of improving the streets and keeping them in fine shape with no dust or mud and in a few years, the people will all want it. The street between the Sayler Hardware Company and Fred Gray's was oiled and the street back of the stores on Third street would have been vaccinated if the "ile" had held out.

Roy Ellis, electrician at the light plant, got a piece of steel in his eye one day last week while making some repairs, and at first it was feared he might lose the sight of it. Dr. Kirk dressed the eye and went with Roy to St. Joseph where a specialist found the steel had all been removed and Roy will soon be able to return to work.

For the Disabled Soldier.

The war has now been over for more than two years. Our great army is demobilized and its men are back on their old jobs. There remains, however, the disabled soldier who came out of the conflict, unable to enter his pre-war vocation and compete with the average man.

The government has come to realize that its obligation to the disabled soldier is best met by giving him trade or a profession; a pension alone is not satisfactory. The happy and contented man is the one who feels that he has a useful place in the world's work.

Congress realizing that in many cases the disabled man would have to give up his pre-war vocation and learn a new one, established the Federal Board of Vocational Education for the purpose of handling the immense task of training these disabled men to take their place again in the field of industry. The plan is not only to equip the man for his future life's work, but also to place him where he may assume a responsible position in his community as a self respecting citizen. The marvelous subdivision of industry in our modern times has developed occupations to which the handicap of a war-won disability practically disappears.

The Government is now offering this opportunity to the disabled men to learn a trade or get training that will equip him to compete with the average men. While taking this training, a single man receives from $80 to $100 per month, and a man with dependants receives from one hundred to one hundred and seventy dollars per month, depending upon the number actual dependants.

Any disabled ex-service man or army nurse whose disability constitutes a vocational handicap, and who can trace same to the service, is entitled to the training as mentioned above. If you think you are entitled to the help of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, get in touch with the local office, 233 Federal Building, Chillicothe, Missouri. They will gladly furnish you with any further information you may desire to help you get this help if you are entitled to same.—From the Chillicothe Constitution.

IN BED EIGHT MONTHS

Cause—Change of Life. How Lydia E.Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Got Me Up

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will induce some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may publish this letter." —Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tennessee.

Women from forty-five to fifty years of age should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, palpitation of the heart, smothering or fainting spells, or spots before the eyes, and prepare their system for this perfectly natural change by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has helped many, many women through this trying period, just as it did Mrs. Keller.

PLANT AND CAN FOR HEALTH.

Vegetables play such an important part in the growth of children that one authority has said, "more children are underweight because of a lack of minerals found largely in vegetables than because of a lack of protein."

More than one-fourth of the school children in Missouri are below the average weight for children of their ages; many of them so seriously under nourished that their bodies are not developing as they should. When such children are questioned as to the vegetables they eat during the winter months their answers include only potatoes, dried beans and occasionally tomatoes.

"Some vegetable other than potatoes should be served every day, and a variety of vegetables is greatly to be desired," says Essie M. Heyle, of the Missouri Agricultural Extension Service. "Every farm home should grow enough vegetables in addition to the usual quota of potatoes to store a large supply of carrots, turnips, beets, sweet potatoes, cabbage and parsnips and to have a can of vegetables for every day till gardens grow again. Greens, string beans, peas, corn and asparagus can all be canned easily by the cold pack method.

"If you do not know how to can these vegetables or if you have not been successful with canning them you can benefit your family greatly by learning now. The Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Missouri at Columbia will send a woman free of charge to demonstrate cold pack canning before a group of women in your community. Take advantage of this opportunity to guard the healthy of your family.

TO SEE IF OFFICERS ARE ENFORCING PROHIBITION

State Enforcement Director Will Tour Missouri Counties for Inspection and Conferences.

Jefferson City, June 17.—A series of investigations to impress upon local authorities that prohibition must be enforced, will be started next week by Special Assistant Attorney General Marshall Campbell, who is in charge of prohibition enforcement, it was announced today.

Campbell will leave on a series of inspection trips Monday the itinerary not being announced.

"This trip is intended as a tour of inspection, conference and advice," said Campbell. "It is hoped this method will result in a better understanding of the law and, therefore, closer co-operation, not only between local authorities, but between local authorities and this department of Attorney General's office.

"Prohibition enforcement is an accomplished fact in by far the greater part of our state. Only a few counties produce complaints. I shall go to those counties which are enforcing the law as well as those which are not, in order that I may see all sides of the situation. Probably every county in state will be visited sooner or later.

"My department of the attorney general's office is in frequent touch with the counties by means of letters, opinions and rulings, but it is my belief that a closer personal touch will help the prohibition inforcement machinery and will produce more thorough enforcement.

MUST APPLY FOR FREE TRAINING CAMP BY JULY 1

Men Up to 35 are Accepted, But Those Between Ages of 16 and 18 are Preferred.

Young men contemplating taking the semi-military physical training course at Camp Pike, Ark., in August have only until July 1 to apply. The committee in charge called attention today to the shortness of time and urged that application blanks be filled in and returned as soon as possible to the Citizens' Military Training Camp Committee at the Chamber of Commerce, Kansas City, Mo.

A month's outing at government expense, plenty of wholesome recreation with training in military and physical culture are some of the things offered the young men of this community by the camp.

Although men up to 35 years old are being accepted, young men between 16 and 18 years old, with no previous military training, are preferred.

A daily schedule of five hours' work and play, intermingled will be carried out throughout the month. Military drill will be light, although sufficient to afford a knowledge of the things most vital to every citizen. The schedule is so diversified as not to be tiresome. It includes drills, games, corrective physical exercises, lectures and various forms of entertainment.

The camp environment will be of the best. Only the applications of men of good character are being considered. There will be no place for "habitual loafers." Young men from all walks of life will be there and the spirit of democracy will prevail. The camp offers a strong appeal to those who work and desire a month's recreation under the direction of expert trainers.

TWO-CENT STAMP BRINGS UNIVERSITY TO YOUR DOOR

Columbia, Mo., June 17.—The two-cent postage stamp is doing its full share to popularize education in Missouri, according to Prof. C. H. Williams, director of the University of Missouri Extension Division. In opening the University front door by means of correspondence courses enababling farmer, printer, mechanic or cook to go to college by mail, decided educational advantages were afforded, Professor Williams said.

Of the 600 students enrolled, about 500 are taking work for University credit, Professor Williams explained. The other 100 are pursuing high school courses. About 400 of the students are women. Of the 114 counties in the state, students in 100 are taking correspondence courses. Jackson, Henry, Boone and St. Louis counties have the largest number enrolled in the extension work.

Correspondence course fees are nominal, designed primarily to cover the cost of examining papers and recording grades. For every hour's credit a fee of $4 is charged. In addition the student pays postage incident to transmittal of the Material. In all courses there are required readings, recommended and readings, and suggestions for study. Recitation questions are appended and an effort is made to give the students personal attention. Eight lessons are required to cover the subject matter for one hour's credit.

EXPLAINS GRAIN MARKET

issue its own short time notes against them and so provide funds to help finance the whole grain marketing system; selling companies to acquire seats on grain exchanges and to dispose of the grain thereon in the usual way; service departments and departments to obtain information and statistics as to supply of grain grown in other countries which may compete with American grown grain and the demand for wheat and other grains in the markets of the world where American grain is sold.

There are three fundamental elements in the proposed grain marketing system; first, the grain grower; second, the local cooperative elevator company or grain growers association;third, the central sales association. The individual grain grower must join the national sales association paying the membership fee of $10.00 for a permanent membership and sign a contract to deliver all his surplus grain to be sold by U. S. Grain Growers Inc., through the local elevator company or grain growers association for a period of five years.

How Grain Is Handled.

The surplus grain of the members in a given locality may be handled in any one of two ways as the members may decide.

1. It may be handled by the local elevator company or grain growers association as it is at present—by purchase from members or by shipping for them on consignment.

2. It may be pooled and pooling may be carried out through the U. S. Grain Growers in one of two ways. The farmers may join a district pool. In this case the farmers of one certain section agree to pool their grain and to trust to the market judgment of the sales manager of the district to secure a better price for them collectively than they could secure as individuals. Instead of this they may become a member of the national pool. In that case they will place one-third of their grain in the national pool and sell the other two-thirds on the consignment basis. The grain in the national pool would be sold under the direction of the central sales organization and fed into the market gradually over the period of a year.

The local cooperative elevator company which has been so successful in solving the grain marketing problem locally will be retained as a basic part of the new grain marketing system. Such an elevator company, however, must be truly cooperative and owned by members of the national sales agency.

Where local elevators fail to make readjustments necessary to meet these requirements or where there is no local cooperative elevator, the members of the national sales association in the given locality will organize themselves into a local grain growers for the handling of its grain by contracting with a local farmers private or line elevator to receive its grain and load it for shipment for a handling charge mutually agreed upon, or the association may rent or rebuild its own elevator.

Contracts for Five Years.

The local cooperative elevator or grain growers association which becomes a part of this plan will sign a contract with the central sales association agreeing to deliver all grain from those farmers who are members of the national sales agency to that sales agency for sale for a period of five years. It may ship its grain to the central sales association on consignment in which case determination of time and place of sale will rest with the local elevator company or grain growers association.

The sales association will sell the grain to the best possible advantage when received and remit the proceeds less selling cost to the local elevator or grain growers association; or the local elevator or association may pool its grain with the grain of one or more other similar farmers elevators or associations.

Such pools may cover any desired territory, time and kind of grain. All pools involving more than one local organization will be under the direction and management of the central sales association and the time and place of sale will be determined by that association provided this proves to be lawful.

Money for advance payment on pooled grain will be furnished by the sales association. When all the grain in any pool is sold the balance due to the local elevator company or grain growers association will be paid to it based on the average proceeds received for that kind, variety and grade and less necessary handling and selling cost.

The central sales association will be governed by a board of directors of twenty-one members elected by vote of the grain growers in the various districts which are based upon amount of grain marketed.

JIMMY PHELAN NEW COACH AT MISSOURI UNIVERSITY

Columbia, Mo., June 18.—James Phelan yesterday accepted the position as head coach of football at the University of Missouri. This announcement was made by Z. G. Clevenger, director of athletics, following a lengthy conference between the two men.

Phelan has been at Missouri for the last two years as a member of the football coaching staff. In 1919, while here as an officer in the R. O. T. C., he was given a leave of absence to act as football scout for the Tigers. Last year he was an associate coach of football.

"I consider Phelan one of the smartest football men to be found in the country," said Mr. Clevenger. "I am confident of his ability to turn out a winning eleven, and that is all we ask."

Mr. Clevenger left today for Chicago, where he will try to sign an assistant to Phelan. He is in quest of a line coach who will also be able to do considerable scouting. A trainer is also to be employed for the 1921 team.

Phelan is a graduate of Notre Dame University. A native of San Francisco he came east to college and became known as one of the most versatile pilot men in football.

Selling By Proved Measurement

Throughout the United States and Canada, newspaper and magazine circulation is looked upon as a commodity to be dealt in honestly—by having the quantity and quality proved.

A great international agency is maintained to make the tests of newspaper and magazine circulation—as a bank examiner makes the tests of bank finances. The name of this organization is

The Audit Bureau of Circulations

Practically every large advertiser and advertising agency in the country, and practically every newspaper and magazine in the country which is willing to have the facts about its circulation known—holds membership in the organization.

Twice a year the newspaper and magazine members make required reports to the Bureau as to their circulation, at least once a year the expert auditors of the Bureau visit each publication office and make their own test of what the circulation is.

The annual audit of The Democrat-Forum's circulation, by the Bureau experts, usually occupies about a week. During that time the auditor has access to every fact and record in the operation of the office during the year, to prove what the circulation really is.

An auditor would no more accept the press run, or the mailing lists, as the proof of what the circulation is and has been than a bank examiner would look at a pile of greenbacks and regard that as proof of what the bank's financial condition is.

Every fact about newspaper circulation must be known to the Bureau of Circulations' auditor, and every fact must agree with every other fact before the proof is accepted.

When the proof is made, a classified report is made to all members showing exactly what the circulation is, where it is distributed, how it was secured.

The reports which the publisher himself makes to the Bureau twice a year can then be compared with the proofs which the Bureau audit discloses at least once a year.

The current audit of The Democrat-Forum's condition will be made this month.

The audited proofs of The Democrat-Forum's circulation, in all particulars, are on file with every advertiser and advertising agency member throughout the country, and are kept in our office for the examination of any patron.

It is regarded as good business practice to have no mysteries about the change which the cashier gives you, or about the yards of goods or the pounds of provisions you buy. It is regarded as good business practice to have these things proved to you. You expect to have the proof, and the other party expects to give you the proof.

There are 1716 members of the Audit Bureau of Circulations in the United States and Canada.
